The BHA is required in statute to develop, in coordination with the Colorado Department of Health Care Policy and Financing (HCPF) and other relevant state agencies and stakeholders, universal contracting provisions (UCPs) to be used by state agencies when contracting for behavioral health services

UCPs are requirements that every behavioral health contract for a particular service must contain, regardless of who the contracting parties are, or how many contracts for services exist and will:

- Streamline the contracting process
- Create a core set of standards for the state to improve quality, accountability and measurement
- Create standards across programs
- Streamline core data collection and sharing requirements
- Create connection to coordinated grievance process
- Standardize core financial reporting requirements
- Standardize requirements for integration with other health and human service programs
- Standardize core access standards with an emphasis on EDI

Draft UCPs and FAQs can be accessed at <https://bha.Colorado.gov/resources-for-providers>

In addition to informing the draft UCPS, stakeholders identified broader questions and considerations that relate to the UCPS

There will be additional opportunities for stakeholders to provide feedback in 2 areas:

- Minimum data collection, including reporting timelines, requirements, and data portal process improvement
- Program & financial requirements, including building on streamlined provisions within the BHA and work across state agencies to examine program, financial and data reporting requirements to improve alignment

HMA is tasked with supporting the BHA and HCPF in the management and facilitation of these opportunities

The process will

- Consist of workgroup meetings, research, information gathering and analysis, and small key informant-type interviews
- Maximize the time and expertise of stakeholders and state agency staff in order to understand the complexities associated with the topics described above and develop actionable recommendations for the BHA and HCPF to consider
- Include communication and information sharing with stakeholders on a regular basis

Additional information will be shared in the upcoming weeks regarding these opportunities and will be posted on the BHA and HCPF websites

Pivotal to quality in behavioral health is reforming payment to: expand capacity, improve sustainability of providers and enhance outcomes for individuals and families receiving care.

Creating alternative payment models is part of the broader reform efforts and align with the new licenses for safety net providers (essential and comprehensive) and are aimed at improving access, innovation in care and long-term sustainability of providers.

Two models of payment reform are under development with a plan for implementation in 2024.

Essential Provider

- Value Based Payment
- Enhanced rate structure for specific services
- Quality expectations
- Stakeholder engagement to come

Comprehensive Provider

- Prospective Payment System
- Daily rate for encounters aligned with cost of care
- Quality benchmarks
- Expectations on serving all populations and services
