Immunizations Coverage

as of January 12, 2026

Background

The federal government recently announced changes to the childhood immunization schedule, reducing the number of vaccines universally recommended and introducing shared decision-making categories. Some vaccines that used to be recommended for all children will now be given based on a discussion between parents and their healthcare provider, or only to children at higher risk. This is called clinical shared decision-making --- a process where providers and patients or parents make medical decisions together

Coverage of Immunizations

All medically necessary immunizations are still covered for all Health First Colorado members with no cost sharing.

Vaccines recommended through shared clinical decision-making are also covered at no cost to members.
