This report tells us about:

- What NCI-IDD tells us about people who work or want to work
- Why employment is important
- Where to find out more about employment in Colorado

What is NCI-IDD?

Each year, NCI-IDD asks people with intellectual and developmental disabilities (IDD) and their families how they feel about their lives and the services they get. NCI-IDD uses surveys so that the same questions can be asked to people in all NCI-IDD states.

Who is surveyed?

Each year people in many states take part in an NCI-IDD meeting. Every year a new group of people are asked to meet.

During the meeting, people are asked the NCI-IDD survey questions. Questions are asked to the person who gets services from the state. For some questions, a family member, friend, or staff member who knows the person well can answer.

How are data shown?

NCI-IDD asks questions about people's case management and staff. In this report we see how responsive they are to people's needs. There are questions to find out if people have choices in case management and staff, like, "does your service coordinator ask you what you want?"

Each page shows a different question and the answers. Each page also has a pie graph. It shows how many people said yes and how many said no. There are also words and stick figures that show how many yes and no answers there were for each question. The answers are whole numbers (like 60% or 90%).

This report includes Colorado's data compared to the weighted NCI Average. State outcomes that are statistically significantly higher or lower than the NCI Average are indicated with an arrow:

1. Outcomes where the state is significantly above the NCI average are denoted with an up arrow ▲
2. Outcomes where the state is significantly below the NCI average are denoted with a down arrow ▼

For this report we round percentages to the nearest ten percent. To round, we look at the last digit in a number. If the digit is 5 or more, we "round up" to the next highest number with a zero. If the digit is 4 or less, we "round down" to the next lowest number with a zero.

For example:

If 87% of people say they choose their staff, we "round up" to 90%.

If 12% of people say they did not choose their staff, we "round down" to 10%.

This report can help people talk about services and supports. If you want more information, you can look up the full report at:

Making Connections – Why Is Community Employment Important?

Community employment means working with and around people who do not have disabilities. People with disabilities are much less likely to have a paid job in the community than people who do not have disabilities.<sup>1</sup> Working is an important part of life for many people.

Work helps people pay for things they need (like rent and food). It also helps people pay for things they like to do for fun (like going to the movies or out to dinner). They get to spend more time with people in their community and meet people. People who work say that working makes them feel better about themselves.<sup>2</sup>

Paid Community Job

NCI-IDD asks if people have a paid community job. A paid community job is work that is done in the community, around people who do not have disabilities. A paid community job can be done individually (meaning on your own or on your own with a coach) or with a group of people with disabilities in the community (like a work crew).

Do you have a paid community job? ▲

2 out of 10

NCI-IDD tells us 2 out of every 10 people have a paid community job.

If you don't have a paid job in the community, do you want one?

6 out of 10

NCI-IDD tells us 6 out of every 10 people who don't have a paid community job said they want one.

Is community employment a goal in your service plan?

2 out of 10

NCI-IDD tells us 2 out of every 10 people have community employment as a goal in their service plan.

Classes, Training and Volunteering

NCI-IDD asks people if they do things to help get a job or do better at the job they have (like if they have a job coach or do skills training). NCI-IDD also asks people if they volunteer. Taking classes or volunteering are some ways that can help people learn skills to get a job.

Do you take classes, training, or do something to help you get a job, get a better job, or do better at the job you have now? ▲

4 out of 10

NCI-IDD tells us 4 out of every 10 said they take classes or do training to help them get a job, get a better job or do better at the job they have now.

Do you volunteer?

3 out of 10

NCI-IDD tells us 3 out of every 10 people said they volunteer.
